

Fischer Identity Advances Relationship with iovation Providing Next Generation Adaptive Access and Authentication Solutions "Beyond" Today's Multi Factor Authentication

December 3, 2018. Naples, FL – Fischer International Identity, the leader in cloud and on-premise identity management and governance solutions, today announced advancements in its partnership with iovation, a TransUnion company.

Fischer Identity continues to expand their product offerings for consumers by offering a new integration with iovation, a TransUnion company. This technology will broaden the adaptive access solution to provide a next generation of multi-factor authentication. Fischer's integration with iovation's 'LaunchKey' technology expands the Fischer Authenticator™ MFA capabilities to include risk-based multifactor authentication to secure online accounts.

According to Dan Dagnall, Fischer Identity's Chief Operating Officer, "Customers need more than just multifactor authentication in this age and state of cyber security. Enhancing our relationship with iovation does just that by providing our customers with granular authentication services that include the necessary components for securing their Identities. Fischer's integration provides password-less authentication or 5-factors of identity verification to our customers to help them secure their most sensitive processes. Whether onboarding new users or resetting passwords, our ability to provide enhanced, risk-based multifactor authentication work flows allows for the global governance of any user attempting to access the identity management ecosystem. Fischer's authentication and identity verification process empowers organizations to eliminate secret questions from their identity verification processes. Given the evolving landscape in IAM, Fischer is proud to lead the forefront of new trends in the identity proofing and verification process. It's time to usher in the next generation of authentication technology, and Fischer Identity is ready to secure customers, worldwide."

"iovation is very excited to partner with Fischer and integrate our LaunchKey technology into the Fischer Authenticator™," says Ed Wu VP of Global Partnerships, "as the demand for digital engagement continues to grow, this robust solution provides consumers a seamless, secure and engaging user experience."
